Description

This elegant antique console table in carved and gilded wood dates from the 18th century. It comes from the same private collection, a Provençal château, as the matching mirror with which it forms a harmonious and coherent ensemble.

The console features a gracefully curved front, richly carved with scrolls, volutes and foliage, characteristic of the decorative vocabulary of the 18th century. The finely executed carving displays a beautiful depth of relief and a fluid, well-balanced reading of the lines, reflecting high-quality decorative craftsmanship intended for refined interiors.

The original gilding retains a warm and nuanced patina. Areas of wear and minor losses are consistent with the age of the piece and fully contribute to its authenticity and charm. The proportions are well balanced, giving the console a strong decorative presence without excess. This piece is ideally suited as a wall-mounted console in an entrance hall, living room or bedroom. It can be displayed on its own or paired with the matching mirror to create a striking and elegant 18th-century decorative set.
