Description

Venetian Art Deco Chest of Drawers, 1930s-1940s

This elegant Venetian Art Deco chest of drawers dates from the 1930s-1940s and is crafted from carefully selected walnut root, prized for its deep and warm grain. The piece rests on black lacquered legs that underline its architectural structure and enhance the graphic character typical of late Art Deco design.

The front features four large, spacious and sturdy drawers fitted with their original handles combining brass and clear plastic, a refined detail characteristic of the period, where noble materials meet a modern aesthetic. The proportions are balanced and harmonious, giving the piece both presence and visual lightness.

Thanks to its refined yet functional design, this chest of drawers integrates equally well into a vintage interior or a more contemporary setting. It can be placed in a bedroom, living room, office or entryway, while offering generous storage capacity.

The surface has been polished with oil and shellac, respecting the original finish. The piece shows slight signs of wear consistent with its age, without affecting its solidity or elegance.
