Description

A refined papier-mâché statuette of a polychrome and gilded female figure, in an expressive and harmonious pose. The figure is captured in a dynamic pose, with one hand raised to her chest, wrapped in elegant drapery in shades of gold and purple. The statuette rests on an integrated circular painted wooden base and retains a beautiful authentic patina. The sculpture, in a classical style, can be traced back to the devotional or allegorical context, typical of Italian production between the 17th and 18th centuries, a period in which papier-mâché was widely used for sculptures intended for home altars, niches, or interior decorations.
