Description

This pair of opaline and bronze oil lamps dates from the 19th century. These celadon-colored opaline lamps have bronze mounts decorated with rocaille and beadwork. They are electrified with E14 sockets. The lampshades were made using block-printed wallpaper from Maison d'Offart in Tours; the marine motifs in the Japanese style lend grandeur to these lamps. A minor repaired imperfection has been noted on one of the lamps (see photo). For more information, please do not hesitate to contact us.
