Description

We are pleased to present this oil painting on canvas from the first half of the 20th century. This splendid painting is signed in red at the bottom left: C. Rizzi. This is a beautiful glimpse of the city of Venice. The painting depicts a view of the famous Bridge of Sighs in Venice, a classic subject of Venetian landscape painting. The Bridge of Sighs, designed by Antonio Contini, connects the Doge's Palace to the New Prisons. Its name comes from the legend that prisoners, crossing it, sighed as they glimpsed the outside world for the last time through its small windows. The artist of this painting perfectly captures the melancholic and evocative atmosphere of one of Venice's most iconic canals, with a gondola in the foreground leading the eye toward the arch of the bridge.
