Description

A rare and beautiful pair of generously proportioned Regency period walnut armchairs, exquisitely carved, with a low, elegant "à la Reine" style back and sturdy, curved legs. The apron features harmonious symmetries that converge at the center with a delicate scroll. The armrests are both robust and elegant, their slope flowing seamlessly into the seat, which is also wide (45cm) and deep (45cm), providing absolute comfort for these plush chairs with their beautiful seat and elegant back, both in size and curve. The balance achieved in these two chairs is rare and evokes a pleasing vision of rustic charm blended with provincial elegance. These chairs undoubtedly originate from a château in the Tarn-et-Garonne region; they are solid and well-maintained, having been spared damage.
