Description

A striking patinated bronze hand candlestick, decorated with a whimsical and symbolic image of a satyr or devil emerging from the circular base. The figure, rendered in high relief, features an expressive horned head, vigorously modeled limbs, and a dynamic pose, typical of the romantic and fantastical imagination of the 19th century. The candlestick consists of a circular base, a molded central socket, and a stylized side handle for a comfortable grip. The even and nuanced antique golden-brown patina highlights the details of the sculpture. An unusual and sought-after decorative object, belonging to both sophisticated folk art and the cabinet of curiosities, characteristic of 19th-century decorative production. Period: 19th century. Material: Patinated bronze. Condition: Good
