Description

Altar candelabrum, late 18th century. Refined altar candelabrum dating from the late 18th century, carved in wood and finished with an exquisite gold leaf gilding. The horizontal structure features five candle holders and is richly adorned with scrolling volutes, foliate motifs and decorative cartouches, reflecting late Baroque / early Neoclassical taste. The pierced central ornament is elegantly balanced by flowing lateral arms with graceful, harmonious lines. The gilding retains a warm tone and an original aged patina consistent with its period, enhancing the piece's authenticity and historical charm. A highly decorative and prestigious object, ideal for collectors, period interiors, historic residences or refined display settings. Period: late 18th century. Material: carved wood with gold leaf finish. Origin: ecclesiastical.
