Description

Jean-Charles de Castelbajac Rug "27 Days of Love", circa 1993. An icon of 1990s textile design, this rug by Jean-Charles de Castelbajac perfectly embodies the designer's pop, poetic, and socially conscious spirit. Made of thick, dense wool, it features a vibrant polychrome checkerboard pattern, punctuated by a palette of bold, contrasting colors. Black letters appear throughout the design, forming evocative words and fragments such as LOVE, HOPE, HEART, GAZE, inviting a sensitive and emotional interpretation of the work. Halfway between contemporary art and decorative object, this rug functions as a true visual poem, where language becomes motif and color, emotion. The artist's signature is woven into the weave, attesting to its authenticity. Created around 1993, 27 Days of
