Description

Rocky Seascape F. LEMAIRE Oil on canvas Signed lower right Dimensions: 41 x 33.5 cm This captivating work depicts a Mediterranean coastal landscape bathed in warm, golden light. The artist skillfully captures the contrast between the imposing rocky cliffs in shades of ochre, brown, and violet, and the turquoise waters that gently break against their base. The diagonal composition guides the eye from the foreground rocks to the geological formations that disappear into the depths of the bay. The luminous reflections on the water and the touches of color on the rock faces demonstrate a careful observation of the effects of light and atmosphere. The technique employed is characteristic of plein air painting, with spontaneous and energetic brushstrokes. The artist chose to work directly on an unprepared canvas, leaving the weave of the textile support visible beneath the paint layer, which gives the work a distinctive texture and a certain authenticity. This direct approach and the chosen color palette evoke the post-Impressionist aesthetic of the early 20th century, a period when many artists explored the Mediterranean coast. The work is signed in the lower right corner. It is in very good condition. The back shows the "raw" material used by the artist. The frame is also in very good condition.
