Description

Pair of Crystal and Carved Wood Vases 19th Century, Black Forest (Attributed)

An elegant pair of decorative vases dating from the 19th century, likely intended for displaying dried flowers. Each piece consists of a finely molded clear crystal vase with a flared neck and scalloped rim, resting on a carved wooden base.

The richly crafted bases feature animal motifs characteristic of Black Forest production, with finely detailed naturalistic decoration, demonstrating remarkable craftsmanship. The harmonious contrast between the luminous transparency of the crystal and the warmth of the patinated wood lends the pieces a refined and timeless decorative presence.
