Description

A very beautiful oil painting on canvas depicting the Château du Bouchet, nicknamed "the Giant", in the Brenne Regional Natural Park, located in the Indre department (36). Beautifully painted in a somewhat ghostly style, the silhouette of this imposing castle is subtly obscured by trees. The bare trees appear windswept, lending a fairytale atmosphere to the work. This painting was created by the artist Paul Goetz and bears his signature in the lower right corner. This exquisite oil on canvas is sold framed. This well-known artist from the Indre department (36) painted numerous landscapes of the Brenne region in a post-Impressionist style. He and his wife, Solange, established their studio in Vendoeuvres (36) in the 1950s. Some of his paintings are held in museums such as the Musée de l'Hospice
