Description

Works depicting the world of clowns always possess a unique presence, emanating from these enigmatic figures who constantly oscillate between the laughter of a painted mask and the sadness of the human condition. This painting perfectly captures this, showing a weary and pensive clown seated on an enormous die amidst scattered scenery. The painter, Farjon, remains unfortunately unknown, but the painting is executed with sensitivity. In excellent condition, it is framed in a beautiful 19th-century frame of equally fine quality. Canvas dimensions: 33 cm x 24 cm
