Description

Pair of Art Deco vases in the shape of a hand holding a torch, made of frosted pink glass. A torch in which your bouquets will become the flame! Created by French glass workshops during the Art Deco period (1910-1939), this pair of vases in frosted pink glass is remarkable. Its shape evokes a hand holding a torch, like the athletes running with the Olympic flame. The vase is distinguished at the top by a receptacle meant to hold "the flame," which will be a bouquet of flowers according to your wishes. Perfectly in keeping with the principles of Art Deco, this vase has a design with soft geometric bases and sophisticatedly embraces a form that is both humanly anatomical (the hand) and poetically natural (torch, flame). Perfect for a classic or modern interior, this pair of vases will
