Description

Industrial metal workbench/table on casters, mid-20th century. Large industrial metal table, originally designed for workshop or factory use. The robust structure rests on four industrial casters, allowing for easy movement despite its considerable weight. The metal top has a strong patina from use, with traces of oxidation and signs of age, sought after for their authenticity within the industrial aesthetic. The reinforced lower frame ensures stability and rigidity, while also offering additional storage or support space. The clean, purely functional lines give this piece a raw and utilitarian character, ideally suited for use as a work table, console, kitchen island, or display table. Period: mid-20th century. Style: industrial. Material: metal. Mobility: 4 casters. Top: patinated metal. Condition: pronounced
