Description

Louis XVI period three-part walnut secretary desk. A beautiful antique secretary desk in solid wood, likely fruitwood, featuring a classic and balanced design typical of French furniture. The piece comprises three distinct sections, offering both storage and functionality. The upper section opens with two solid doors, their richly grained panels revealing the natural beauty of the wood and a warm, deep patina. The middle section consists of a drop-front, concealing a writing and storage area. The lower section includes three stacked drawers, fitted with round metal knobs, providing generous storage capacity. The entire piece rests on straight legs, ensuring stability and a clean, vertical silhouette. The even and nuanced antique patina bears witness to its age and lends the secretary an authentic charm. Period: 18th
