Description

This piece is remarkable in more ways than one, and the design is rare. It is a kilim originating from Verneh in Azerbaijan, in the Caucasus. At first glance, one is instantly captivated by the omnipresence of indigo blue in various shades. Then, the embroidered motifs on the surface create a refined relief in a succession of horizontal bands that unfold majestically along its entire length. The harmony of the plant-based hues forms a delicate interplay of light and shadow, where the ochre-brown areas contrast with the infinitely deep blues. Purity, elegance, all in a timeless composition. Woven wool on wool, the structure is astonishingly fine and tight; the piece is supple and light. In a state of preservation bordering on miraculous. Circa 1870. Dimensions: 233 x 183 cm. Laurent Beauty
