Description

Elegant "Morbier"/"Comtoise" pendulum clock, made of carved wood and lacquered in blue and white tempera, with polychrome painted decorations. The clock features a front body entirely decorated with floral motifs, with two small historiated scenes, one depicting a rooster, while another, lower down, depicts two figures. The case opens, revealing the embossed brass lyre pendulum, elaborately decorated with geometric and plant motifs. The clock case, which also opens with hooks on both sides, contains the dial in the center, enclosed in a brass decoration, featuring Roman numerals and the words "V.ve Aaron" and "à Nevers." The first refers to the watchmaker; it's an inscription found on Comtoise watches, used to indicate that the watchmaker's workshop was inherited by the
