Description

A rare mid-height desk crafted from sycamore veneer and ebonized wood, with a slightly trapezoidal shape, rounded corners, and resting on four very tapered, splayed legs ending in brass sabots. Three drawers in the frieze. A unique and very elegant design. A superb piece from the 1950s; the workshop and designer are yet to be identified. Traces of inventory or model numbers under the desk need deciphering. Excellent provenance. A matching bookcase/sideboard is currently being restored; photos are available upon request while awaiting online posting. In very good condition, fully restored by our workshop, it is sold with a thick, beveled glass top that can be used to protect the desktop.
