Description

If you are looking for an antique piece capable of transforming the atmosphere of your bedroom, this 1840 Walnut Dresser represents an unmissable opportunity. Crafted in Italy during the mid-19th century, this piece embodies the understated elegance and structural solidity typical of Bolognese cabinetmaking of the period. The dresser stands out for its three large drawers and, above all, for its splendid side columns adorned with diverse carved motifs--a stylistic detail that lends rhythm and uniqueness to the design. Its generous proportions (h. 106, W. 129, d. 61) make it not only a work of art but also a functional and extremely spacious storage solution. The warm grain of the walnut wood has been meticulously preserved: the piece is in excellent overall condition, ready to be placed in
