Description: Oil on canvas depicting the Tre Cime di Lavaredo as seen from Lake Antorno. In the foreground lies the expanse of water, reflecting the wooded shoreline and the mountain profile in the background, creating a balanced interplay of solid forms and open space. The composition is structured on overlapping planes, with an atmospheric rendering achieved through a dense, material brushwork, particularly evident in the rocks and vegetation, where palette knife technique alternates with the brush. The colour range, dominated by deep greens and earthy tones, is
