Description

CHANEL chronograph watch, J12 model from 2015, men's version. The J12, previously designed in glossy black ceramic, is presented here in a version created in 2006, with a matte finish. Chanel, using innovative materials, combines the micro-blasted black ceramic of the case with a compressed rubber strap that is particularly dense, yet extremely lightweight, hence its name "Superleggera". The case is also made of aluminum, a metal known for its lightness. This makes this large watch very comfortable to wear, as it is 45% lighter than a J12 chronograph watch made entirely of ceramic. Apart from the matte finish, the overall aesthetic of this chronograph remains the same. It is equipped with a self-winding mechanical movement, so it doesn't need to be wound if worn
