

Aravis Butt-shaking Chair

125 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Très bon état

Material : Solid wood

Description

Have you ever had to milk a goat? It's a real job... In the 19th century, in the Aravis mountains, where this object originated, they had found a clever solution... The carpenter must have had a good laugh when he was commissioned to make a stool with only one leg. But attached to the belt, both hands were then free for milking... You had to be able to hold the milk pail somehow.

Dealer

Complément d'objets

sciences, ethnical, naturalia, artificialia, didactical items, curiosities

Tel :

Mobile : 00 32 477 450 595

Wemmel 1780