85 EUR

Period : 19th century

Condition : Etat d'usage

Description

Folk art, I love it because you can learn something new every day... What I use as a nutcracker, occasionally, was once used daily by roofers and zinc workers. Look at the rooftops of Paris: they used to smooth strips of lead to join cornices, among other things. This tool was essential. It bears the monogram of its owner, or perhaps even the craftsman who carved it.
