Description

Academic Drawing - Study of a Male Nude - Signed - Late 19th Century. Large academic drawing depicting a standing male nude, executed in charcoal or black pencil on paper. The model is studied with meticulous attention to anatomy, muscular tension, and the interplay of light and shadow, demonstrating a solid academic training. The modeling, achieved through hatching and shading, emphasizes the volumes of the body in a dynamic pose typical of late 19th or early 20th-century studio exercises. The drawing bears a legible signature at the bottom, "R. Ver...", the artist of which remains unidentified. It has a pleasing presence, is in good overall condition, with a slight patina on the paper consistent with its age. Presented in a simple and elegant frame with a mat, which enhances the drawing while
