Description

Discreet elegance and timeless charm define this pair of stained beechwood Bridge armchairs, dating from the 1940s. The curved armrests, the graceful lines of the legs, and the decorative nailhead trim highlight the meticulous craftsmanship. The backs and seats are upholstered in an original faux leather that mimics cork, providing a warm and unique texture, blending natural feel with urban refinement. This durable yet graphic covering subtly complements the wood's patina. Perfect as occasional seating in a living room, office, or bedroom, they combine comfort, character, and versatility. A wonderful opportunity for vintage furniture enthusiasts with an authentic spirit.
