Description

A "Marie-Antoinette" chandelier from the Napoleon III period, in cut crystal and gilt bronze. Sixteen outer ring lights and four central lights, for a total of twenty lights. Parisian work. Circa 1870. Dimensions: Height: 145 cm, Diameter: 85 cm. Description: The central frame of this superb Marie-Antoinette chandelier is adorned with sixteen outer ring lights, shaped like candles. Four additional lights inside illuminate the heart of the chandelier, making the crystal radiate from within and creating a particularly warm atmosphere. The entire piece is richly decorated with cut crystal drops, pendants, drops, and rosettes, suspended in garlands and vertical cascades. These elements, characteristic of the great Parisian workshops of the 19th century, multiply the reflections and create a refined
