Description

This large 19th-century cloisonné enamel vase embodies all the richness and subtlety of Asian art from the Meiji period. Its imposing stature, standing 45.5 cm tall, makes it a major piece, capable of captivating attention and elegantly adorning even the most refined interiors. The handles, finely sculpted in the form of mythical dragons, lend this vase an almost mystical dimension. These legendary creatures, symbols of power and wisdom in Asian culture, seem to watch over the piece, adding a touch of enchantment and mystery. Their presence underscores the excellence of the craftsmanship, where every detail is designed to tell a story and evoke an emotion. The decoration, typical of late 19th-century Chinese cloisonné, is a festival of colors and patterns. Delicate flowers, arabesques, and plant motifs intertwine harmoniously, creating a visual interplay that is both dynamic and soothing. The enamels, with their vibrant and deep hues, are skillfully applied to highlight the intricate designs, reflecting the mastery of the artisans of the period. This vase is also distinguished by its excellent overall condition, a testament to its quality and meticulous care over the years. The hallmarks affixed to the base attest to its authenticity and origin, enhancing its appeal to collectors and enthusiasts of Asian art. Perfect for antique lovers, this vase is much more than a simple decorative object: it is a work of art in its own right. It will find its place in an exceptional collection or in an interior that appreciates the timeless beauty of pieces steeped in history. A rare piece, combining aesthetics, symbolism, and exceptional craftsmanship, to be discovered without delay. You can follow me on Instagram by following this link:
