Description

A superb view of Venice bathed in light, enlivened by sailboats and traditional fishing boats gliding on the lagoon. Henri Duvieux (1855-1920) captures all the magic of the Serenissima: clear skies, vibrant turquoise reflections, and golden architecture on the horizon. The brushwork is lively, luminous, almost impressionistic. The panoramic composition adds depth and elegance, with a beautiful white sail immediately catching the eye. A decorative, fresh, and timeless work, perfect for a refined interior. Signed lower right. Presented in a wide, carved and gilded wood and stucco frame, with a red velvet mat that enhances the contrast and warmth of the whole. Period: late 19th - early 20th century. Technique: oil on canvas. Signature: lower right. Framing: antique
