Description
-------------

Victor Hasch (1945-2012) "The Pink Orchestra, 1980" Oil on canvas, Signed lower right, Countersigned, titled, dated, and dedicated on the back of the canvas by the artist: "The Pink Orchestra 1980", Provenance: Gift from the artist. A beautiful, high-contrast work by the French painter Victor Hasch depicting an orchestra playing a symphony. The artist uses a palette knife to create texture in his composition. Victor Hasch was a French painter and lithographer known for his brightly colored works. His work is in the tradition of the painters he admired, such as Andy Warhol, Jean-Michel Basquiat, Robert Rauschenberg, and Nicolas de Staël. In the 1980s, he produced a series of works, notably on the theme of music, in the style of Nicolas de Staël's compositions. Victor Hasch's work is featured in
