collections are intended to be contemporary yet timeless, luxurious but never ostentatious. In 1996, the Roche Bobois group selected a few models. The mini-collection was a success, and the collaboration was fruitful. Jean Boggio (1963) is a French jeweler and goldsmith whose reputation now extends far beyond France. Both a craftsman and a contemporary artist, Jean Boggio loves to tell stories through his creations, where dreamlike imagery meets fantasy. He has also dedicated himself to the decorative arts. He has designed collections for leading French houses such as Daum, Baccarat, Saint Louis, Raynaud, the Portieux crystal factory, Longwy, Haviland, Les Héritiers, Chopard, the Ritz, Porthault, Hermès, Maison Charles, and Maison Tisserant.
