Description

"18th Century Piedmontese Oak Wardrobe"

Choosing to place an "18th Century Piedmontese Oak Wardrobe" in your home means welcoming a piece of history from the pinnacle of Italian craftsmanship. This wardrobe is not merely a storage unit, but a testament to the sober elegance and sturdiness typical of the 18th-century Savoy era. The oak, selected for its extraordinary density, has acquired a natural patina over time that enhances every single grain of the wood. Construction Quality and Historical Details The mastery of Piedmontese cabinetmakers clearly emerges in the solid structure and harmonious lines. In good overall condition, the wardrobe preserves the charm of the era without sacrificing functionality. Therefore, it fits perfectly into both classic contexts and modern interiors. Moreover, the original ironwork and hand-carved details confirm the authenticity of a work destined to last for generations.

Dimensions and Ideal Placement

Regarding space, the wardrobe measures 140x59xh193. In the first place, these proportions make it extremely versatile, ideal for a stately bedroom or a formal living room. Indeed, thanks to its generous depth, it offers excellent capacity. In the same way, its modest height allows it to complement rooms with standard ceilings while maintaining a perfect aesthetic balance.
