Description

Louis XV Period Curved Commode, 18th Century, Circa 1750. Superb Louis XV period commode with a curved front in solid walnut, resting on cabriole legs ending in scrolls. This commode, with its curved front and wooden top with softened corners, opens with three drawers in three rows in the front. Its frieze is delicately shaped, and the sides are paneled. Its uprights are rounded with discreet fluting. Beautiful gilt bronze ornamentation, such as drawer pulls and Rococo keyhole escutcheons, is included. It has its key. Beautiful wood. A piece of finely crafted furniture with clean and refined lines. This commode combines practical utility with ample storage space, allowing you to display your art objects, decorative items, clocks, or lighting fixtures. But it also presents a very attractive
