Description

A refined and impressive wall console, crafted from finely carved and gilded wood, an expression of the elegance and formal lightness typical of the Rococo era. The structure is distinguished by its wavy, sinuous lines. The legs are embellished with expertly carved acanthus leaves, scrolls, and plant motifs, creating a remarkable sense of depth. A particularly valuable element is the arched lower crosspiece, which visually lightens the structure, creating an elegant interplay of solids and voids. The antique gilding, with its warm, aged patina, enhances the quality of the carving and testifies to the historical authenticity of the piece. The contemporary, shaped faux marble top completes the ensemble with balance and prestige. Period: First half of the 20th century Condition: Excellent Origin:
