Description

Oil painting on canvas depicting a view of Paris by Maurice Blond. A very beautiful painting by this School of Paris artist, complete with its original carved wooden frame. Maurice Blond, born in 19th-century Poland, after studying art, frequented the artistic circles of Montparnasse, particularly those of Russians, with whom he forged many friendships. His work is represented in numerous museums, including those in Kyiv, England, and the United States. Listed in many publications, including the Benezit dictionary, his figurative painting is characterized by a great delicacy of vision, in communion with Mother Nature and a love of things. A collector's item, this good-sized piece (55 x 46 cm) is rare on the market, featuring one of his most sought-after subjects. Shipping is available within France and
