Description

Mahogany Drop-Leaf Table, 19th Century. An elegant drop-leaf table in mahogany and mahogany veneer, resting on a central, carved, fluted baluster-shaped base. The rectangular drop-leaf top allows for various configurations, offering both functionality and refinement. The apron opens with two drawers in the front, adorned with turned knobs, providing discreet and practical storage. The base terminates in a quadrangular plinth mounted on finely carved claw feet, emphasizing the decorative character of the piece. The wood displays a beautiful, warm grain, enhanced by an elegant antique patina. This versatile table can be used as a side table, console table, or small writing table, depending on the use. A beautiful decorative piece combining clean lines and quality craftsmanship, it is ideal for a
