Description

This refined late 19th century chandelier is crafted in finely cast gilt bronze and richly ornamented with cut crystal elements. The elegant structure features eight gracefully scrolling arms radiating from a sculptural central stem, each arm supporting a candle-style light. The bronze is finely worked with classical foliage and flowing lines, typical of high-quality European lighting from the late 1800s. The chandelier is adorned with an abundant and harmonious arrangement of hand-cut crystal drops, including large faceted pear-shaped pendants, elongated spear drops, and octagonal crystal beads. These elements are suspended in elegant tiers beneath the arms and central body, creating a lively play of light and reflection when illuminated. Each light is topped with a finely cut
