Description

A superb oval table by Roger Capron, the iconic Vallauris ceramist, who surrounded himself with the finest artisans to bring his renowned "Les Herbiers" collection to life. This vintage piece embodies the perfect blend of artistic craftsmanship and a tribute to Mediterranean nature. The tabletop is composed of garrigue tiles made by pressing plants native to the South of France, which, once fired, leave a beautifully detailed charred imprint. Each tile is then sculpted and arranged in a radiating pattern around a central medallion, creating a botanical composition that is both graphic and poetic. The warm hues--ochres, browns, and sienna--evoke the landscapes of the South and lend the whole piece an autumnal atmosphere. The solid wood frame, with its four sturdy legs, underscores the
