Description

This late 19th-century chestnut farmhouse table, seating 8 to 10, embodies the simplicity and sturdiness of rural furniture designed primarily for practical use. With a comfortable height under the apron, the minimalist design of this table, devoid of superfluous ornamentation, highlights the natural beauty of the wood and the patina of time. Carefully restored, the lower legs demonstrate a commitment to preserving authenticity without compromising the original spirit. Every knot, every grain of this antique table tells the story of daily routines, shared meals, generations past, and simply a life story.
