Description

Jingdezhen Chinese porcelain candy box with a Japanese decor by Geishas. Craft creation of the ceramist workshops of Jingdezhen in China in the 19th century, this painted and enamelled porcelain candy presents a Japanese-like decor of two women in a style of Geishas, in a bucolic garden. This inspiration comes from a Chinese desire to please the European demand for an element of Japanese-style decor at home. Jingdezhen, with Canton, being artisanal & economic centers of export ceramics for foreign demand, when the European asks, Canton & Jingdezhen offer. In very good general condition, this porcelain of the 19th century is exceptional and with a nameless delicacy, worthy of Chinese porcelain. The brand ? under its base means ? mei / bi "beautiful" / "elegant", this adjective was often
