Description

This is an Art Deco cameo glass vase from Schneider's Le Verre Français line, decorated with a stylized bellflower motif in warm shades of orange, yellow, and burgundy. It is made of multi-layered colored glass: a mottled yellow-orange background overlaid with a darker reddish-brown layer, acid-etched to create the relief pattern (cameo glass). The etched areas are then polished, producing a contrast between the glossy, raised decoration and the softer, semi-matte background--a characteristic of Le Verre Français production between approximately 1918 and 1932. Charles Schneider was a renowned glassmaker of the Art Deco period in France. He was celebrated for his exquisitely beautiful and delicate creations. He was one of the founders of the Le Verre Français
