Description

Early 20th-century printed cotton piqué quilt, decorated with faux solids on a cream background on one side and white stripes on a pink background on the other. The fabric is of good quality with relatively well-preserved colors. The quilted cover offers a pleasantly soft and comfortable feel. There are no snags, tears, or major damage. Condition : A slight sheen is visible on the light ecru side (see photos). Also noteworthy are slight variations in tone on the pink fabric (very subtle), as well as the possibility of some loose threads in the stitching. Overall, the quilt is in very good condition. ?
