Description

Antique Victorian 9-15ct Gold Charm Bracelet with 15 Fob Seals, Carnelian and Bloodstone Intaglios A rare and highly characterful Victorian gold charm bracelet dating to the mid-19th century, composed of a substantial reeded and oval-link chain fitted with a complete collection of fifteen original swivel-mounted fob seals. Such bracelets were often assembled over time and reflect the deeply personal and heraldic traditions of the Victorian era. The bracelet is crafted primarily in 9-15 carat gold, with two seals in pinchbeck, and secures with a bolt clasp. The seals are set with a variety of polished hardstones including deep red carnelian, mottled green bloodstone, and limestone, many bearing intaglio engravings of family crests, initials, and symbolic motifs. The variety of seal forms, engraving
