Description

An elegant Louis XVI period console table from Aix-en-Provence, crafted from carved wood and finished with its original green and beige lacquer. It rests on fluted, tapered legs joined by a stretcher adorned in its center with a motif of cassolettes. The finely carved apron is embellished with knots and garlands. The original white veined marble top, with its cut corners, is a beautiful decorative ensemble with harmonious proportions. Provençal work from the 18th century.
