Description

A Louis XV style sideboard, late 19th century, veneered in various types of rosewood with end-grain marquetry on the front and sides. The frame is oak. The sideboard is curved on the front and sides, opening with two large doors. The interior features a shelf. It is adorned with bronze mounts on the upper uprights, the lower rail, and the feet. The whole rests on cabriole legs. The top is crowned with a thick, veined red Burgundy marble slab with a double groove. A beautifully crafted piece of Parisian work.
