Description

Description: An elegant rectangular side table or end table dating from the 1970s. This model is characteristic of Guy Lefèvre's work for the renowned Maison Jansen, combining geometric rigor with sophisticated materials. The structure is made of high-quality brushed steel, highlighted by a thin, gilded brass frame that encircles the glass top. This subtle contrast between the matte, industrial look of the steel and the warm shine of the brass is typical of the French "Hollywood Regency" style of this period. Technical details: Materials: Square-section brushed steel base, brass molding, glass top. Condition: Excellent original condition. Normal oxidation on the brass gives it its patina. Glass in good condition. Period: 20th century, 1970s.
