Description

A matcha tea caddy, or natsume, for the tea ceremony. Made of black lacquered wood decorated with sakura (Japanese cherry blossom) flowers in gold makie lacquer, fluttering in the breeze. For the tea ceremony, the tea master chooses objects according to the seasons, guests, and events. This natsume relates to spring. Its minimalist design highlights the quality of the lacquer. Artist: Shuho, Japan, 1980s, 7 x 6.8 cm. With its original box signed by the artist.
