Description

Vase ball with flared collar workshop Hasania in Safi popular art of Morocco 70sCreation of the ceramist workshops of Hasania in Safi, this vase with a ball base and high flared collar is originally from 1970s Morocco. The entirety of this vase is handmade, turned and painted by hand. Its arabesque decor inspired by Moroccan ethnic architecture & design is a beautiful example of Popular Art from the Maghreb, where cream, caramel and black colors mix in a subtle and bright decor. The quality of work and its enamel make it a perfect vase for a decoration sensitive to the talents of Moroccan craftsmen in an ethnic design stemming from the popular art of the Maghreb in the 1970s.
