Description

Large portrait in armor of Philippe d'Orléans, brother of Louis XIV. - Oil on canvas. - Similar to the works of Jacob Ferdinand Voet. - Circa 1670-1680 - Dimensions: 117 x 93 cm. Framed: 131 x 107 cm. -Relined. Restored. - Philippe de Bourbon (1640 Saint-Germain-en-Laye - 1701 Saint-Cloud) was the younger son of King Charles XIII of France and Queen Anne of Austria. His elder brother was the future King Louis XIV, the "Sun King." At court, he was known as "Monsieur." In 1661, he was married against his will to Henrietta Anne Stuart (Henrietta of England, 1644-1670). His second marriage, beginning in 1671, was to Elisabeth Charlotte, known as Liselotte, of the Palatinate (1652-1722). Philippe d'Orléans became a competent military commander. As early as 1667,
