Description

This small painting is an expressive animal portrait of a hunting dog, likely a Pointer or Braque, with a gentle, attentive gaze. The oil technique provides a beautiful texture, particularly evident in the rendering of the coat and the sheen of the nose. The background, rendered in shades of olive green and brown, creates an artistic blurring effect that makes the subject stand out with great depth. It is a work that exudes great authenticity, typical of charming animal studies. Natural wood frame - Oil on cardboard.
